For many people, the workplace is becoming more and more stressful. The workload is increasing, work standards are being raised, and the work pace is relentless. Workplace stress can have a serious impact on your health and wellbeing and is a major contributor to absenteeism and burnout. The causes of stress at work, varies greatly from one individual to another. It is helpful to find out what your overall job stress level is and what situations or conditions cause the most distress.

The Job Stress Questionnaire (JSQ) has been designed to assess relative levels and sources of stress in your workplace. The JSQ analyzes your level of stress based on past events/situations that you may have experienced or the prospect of future events/situations that you may encounter at work. At the end of this questionnaire, you will receive an assessment of your level of stress and a comprehensive summary will be presented to you.

This questionnaire is to be completed as follows:

For every event or situation that happened or may occur, circle a number from 1 to 5; 1 being the least stressful and 5 the most stressful. Numbers 2 to 4 indicate more or less average levels of stress.

It is possible and even certain that you have not been or that you won't be confronted by all the events or situations described in this questionnaire. Whenever that is the case, please skip those areas that do not apply to you.

If a situat affected y circle the the amou	ou e n	in um	the ber	las tha	st6 atde	mont escrib	hs, Jes		If you anticipate a situation or experience below affecting you in the next 6 months, circle the number that describes the amount of stress it may cause you.
